A Message from Bishop Michael and Ed Gregory

Dear Colleagues,

One of the privileges of my role as Bishop of Bath and Wells is visiting Church Schools to be found all around our Diocese. I'm inspired to see the love of learning and development that schools nurture in our children and it's brilliant to see 'growth mindsets' encouraged and championed. This brochure is an invitation for all teachers, governors, school staff, head teachers and chairs of governors to take part in and model the growth and development that we encourage all our children to see as a lifelong process. So please do sign up to take part in different aspects of the training that's offered by our diocese. We'd love to accompany you on your own learning journey and hope too that training offers excellent opportunities for you to network and be supported by colleagues from many different places. Above all this invitation is accompanied by our thanks and appreciation for all that you do. As I visit schools around the diocese I'm humbled to encounter your commitment, your passion and determination to do the very best for the children and families that you serve. Thank you for all that you give. I hope that our offer of training is just one way that we can give back to you.

+Michael

As a Diocesan Education Department we thank you for all that you are doing, as volunteers or paid staff, for children and young people in education across our diocese. In response we aim to serve you with great training and support that will meet your needs in this changing and challenging landscape. Between us we have tremendous skills, knowledge and wisdom that enables creativity, collaboration and confidence that will bring huge benefits and great hope to the children, young people and communities we are serving together.
