The ordination and consecration of Fiona Gibson as Bishop of Taunton

The ordination and consecration of the Ven Dr Fiona Gibson as Bishop of Taunton in the Diocese of Bath and Wells took place on Friday 6 February 2026 at Southwark Cathedral. Fiona officially became a bishop alongside The Ven Jean Burgess, who is now the Bishop of Grimsby in the Diocese of Lincoln. The Most Revd Stephen Cottrell, Archbishop of York, presided over the service.

Fiona was then welcomed to the diocese at a special Evensong at Wells Cathedral on Sunday, 8 February. The nave of the Cathedral was packed with people from across the diocese, including clergy, officers, civic and church leaders, as well as Fiona's family and former colleagues.

After a welcome from Bishop Michael, Fiona, senior clergy and members of Wells Cathedral Chapter moved into the Quire, the central part of the Cathedral, where she swore an oath to the Chapter of Wells in all matters relating to her as a member of the College of Canons. She was installed into her official seat in the Cathedral by Anne Gell, Archdeacon of Wells, who inducted her as a Prebendary of Wells Cathedral. For full details and pictures, visit the Bath and Wells website.

Measure today, change tomorrow: EFT now open to submissions

The Energy Footprint Tool (EFT) is now open for submissions. Completing the EFT is part of our shared journey to net zero and supports the Church's fifth mark of mission, to care for creation. Last year 65% of our churches completed the EFT, up from 30% in 2022. Speaking about the importance of the EFT at the recent Diocesan Service for Creation Care, Bishop Michael said, "It is great that we have 65% of our churches completing the EFT, but it would be fantastic to get to 100%. That could be a game changer because it would give us the data to enable us to speak with authority." Read more and find out how we can help you here.

General Synod

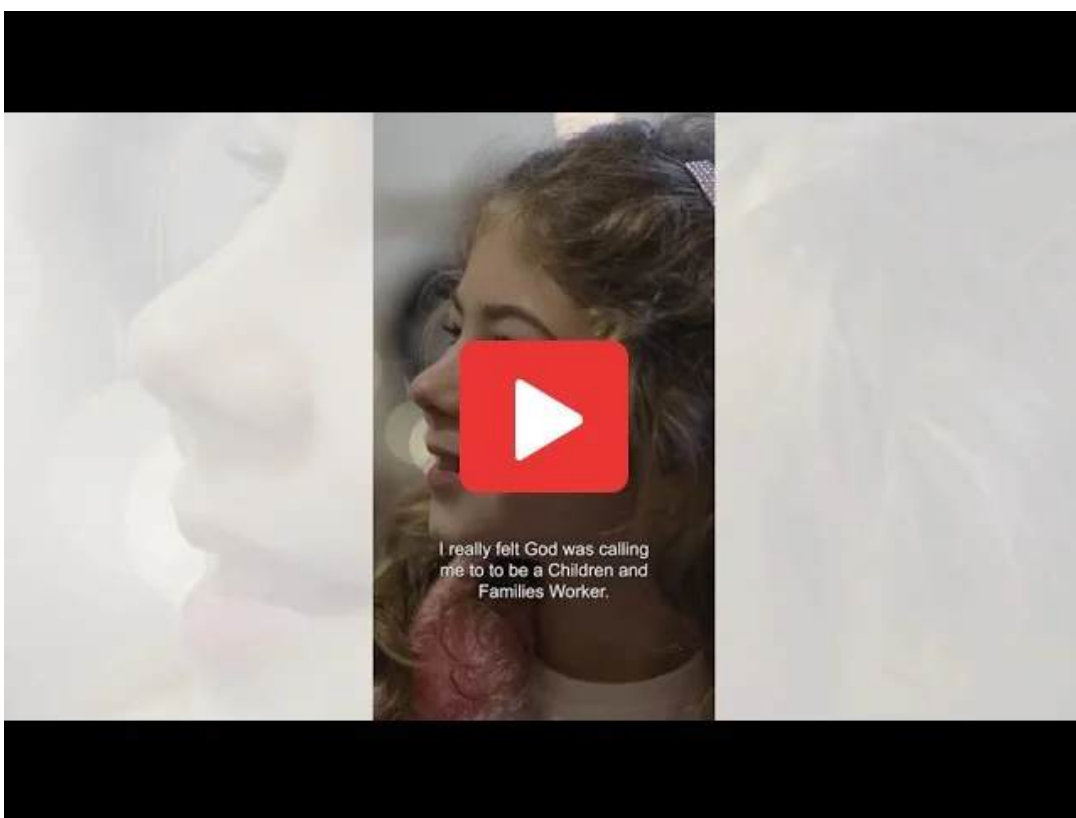

Bishop Michael has been in London this week attending General Synod. Synod took place at Church House, Westminster from 9-13 February. Archbishop Sarah opened with her first presidential address since becoming archbishop. Catch up with all that's been taking place at General Synod this week.

A number of people from Bath and Wells have also been taking part in General Synod. Eleanor Motion is one of the General Synod new Youth Representatives. She joins five young adults selected, following an open application process, to be representatives and follows General Synod plans to increase the number of young people able to take part in its debates, marking a significant step in strengthening youth representation at the heart of the Church of England's decision making.

The Youth Representatives will participate in Synod meetings and debates. Eleanor says she is delighted to be a representative and has already been speaking at a fringe event. Read more about the Youth Representatives.

Charlotte Berry, Children and Families Worker at Holy Trinity, Nailsea shared her story of faith via video as part of the General Synod debate on how to better support and recognise those from working class roots who are called to ministry. In the video Charlotte shares how she feels called by God, “He’s called me because he knows who I am, and he knows what I can bring to my role and how to serve him in this community.” Watch Charlotte's powerful testimony below.

Elections to Synod

General Synod will be holding elections in 2026. If you would like information about standing for election for the next five year term, you can find out more on the Church of England website.

Vacancies

Lament to Action Group - volunteer members

The Diocese of Bath and Wells is seeking volunteers to join its Lament to Action Group, which supports and shapes the diocese's long-term commitment to racial justice.

This work is rooted in Christian faith and values and seeks to move beyond words towards meaningful and lasting change. The group works alongside the Diocesan Racial Justice Adviser, offering insight, challenge and encouragement as the Diocese responds to its independent Racial Justice Audit and the Church of England's From Lament to Action strategy.

Members act as critical friends, helping to ensure that commitments to racial justice lead to practical, sustained action. For more information about this post, please visit the vacancies section of the diocesan website.
